Frank Mazza of Central avenue, an Italian, was arrested Sunday morning by Policeman Joseph Imley charged with assault with intent to kill and with carrying concealed weapons. The plaintiff is James Hayes of Beech street, a colored man. Hayes was sitting on a step in front of a grocery store on Beech street when a young son of Mazza mischievously stepped on his feet. Hayes chased the youngster away and warned him not to do it again. The boy repeated his act twice and then Hayes got mad and gave him a shove. The boy fell down. He got up crying and ran home. Son Hayes saw the boy's father coming toward him in a hurry and he hastily vacated his seat on the steps and took to his heels. Mazza pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired at Hayes but Hayes escaped unhurt.

BOUGHT FARM HE TILLS.

TINTON FALLS PLACE SOLD TO MAN WHO FARMS IT.

The Dennis Valentine Farm of Eighty Acres Bought by John Egan, Who Has Been on the Place Several Years—Price Said to be $15,000.

John Egan, who has been on the Dennis Valentine farm at Tinton Falls several years, has bought the place. The farm has about eighty acres. It is on the south side of the county road running from Tinton Falls to Col's Neck, just west of the turn in the road in front of Wellington Wilkins's farm. It extends from the county road southward to the Tinton Falls millpond and Hochhookson brook.

The soil of the farm is very rich and fertile and its productivity has been kept up many years. The ground is level and it produces big crops. Mr. Egan has been farming the place on shares three or four years and crops have been big and prices high. The price he is said to have paid for the place is $15,000. A hundred years ago the Dennis Valentine farm was owned by Nicholas Wilson, great-grandfather of Nicholas J. Wilson of Red Bank. At that time the farm comprised 30 to 400 acres. It extended all the way from Swimming river on the north to the Tinton Falls millpond and Hochhookson brook on the south, and for a long distance on both sides of the present county road.

In 1844 Nicholas Wilson sold 300 acres of land of the farm to Jonathan I. Holmes of Holmdel. Mr. Holmes kept the farm a few years and then sold it to Frank Johnson of New York. About the same time Frank Johnson's brother, John Johnson, bought the Garrett Hagerty farm, now owned by Wellington Wilkins. In 1854 Frank Johnson divided his farm, selling the part south of the county road to Dennis Valentine. The part of the farm north of the county road, containing about 200 acres, he retained. There was a little over 100 acres in the tract sold to Dennis Valentine. This included the big field at the corner of the road. About thirty years ago Dennis Valentine sold the corner field at auction and it was bought by the late Daniel Shutt. After Mr. Shutt's death this field was bought by Richard Deever, who had bought the Samuel Trafford farm, which adjoins the Valentine farm on the west. Shortly after Frank Johnson bought the place he built a fertilizer factory on the place. Dennis Valentine lived on the farm until his death about ten years ago. At Mr. Valentine's death the farm went to his wife and daughter, the daughter being Mrs. James W. S. Campbell of Freehold. Mrs. Valentine also lives at Freehold, she making her home with her daughter. The farm was tilled by tenant farmers several years and three or four years ago it was bought by John V. D. Forman of Freehold. John Egan rented the place for several years about the time that Mr. Forman bought it and he has been there ever since.

The house on the place is one of the big, old-fashioned comfortable two story and a half farmhouses which were built on the big farms of Monmouth county a hundred years ago. It has ten or twelve rooms on the first and second floors, and there is a big attic. The original barn on the place burned down twelve years ago and a big new one was built in its place. The other buildings on the place, though old, are in excellent condition. They are built of huge axe hewn timbers from the woods on the place. The frames are as sound as they were the day of the barn raising, nearly a hundred years ago, when they were put in place by a big assemblage of farmers from all over this part of the county, as was the custom at barn raisings in those days.

AGAINST GAS INCREASE.

MUNICIPALITIES TO FIGHT PROPOSED RATE RAISE.

Mayor Frank D. Covert of Fair Haven Asks Co-operation of Other Towns in Fighting Application of Consolidated Gas Company.

The municipalities that will be affected by the proposed increase in gas and electric rates of the Consolidated gas company will oppose the application before the utilities commission. Mayor Frank D. Covert of Fair Haven is the leader in the movement. He attended a meeting of the Long Branch commissioners last week and stated that Fair Haven and Red Bank were opposed to the increase. He suggested that the matter be placed in the hands of the New Jersey league of municipalities. This league he said had trained experts on all lines and had been very successful in the past in winning fights for the people against corporations.

Long Branch is also opposed to the increase and has started an investigation to decide on some plan of action. The Consolidated gas company supplies Long Branch and Red Bank, as well as the intervening villages, with gas. Its electric current is used only at Long Branch and the immediate vicinity.

A DINNER TO A SOLDIER.

A WELCOME TO FRANK MERRITT BY A SCORE OF FRIENDS.

He Was the First Red Banker to Reach France and the First Red Banker Who Had Reached France to Get a Furlough to Visit Home.

A complimentary dinner was tendered to Frank Merritt of Red Bank, son of Walter H. Merritt of Spring street, last Wednesday night. The dinner was given at the French restaurant on Broad street, one end of the dining room being reserved for the dinner party.

Twenty-one persons were in the dinner party, including Frank Merritt. He appeared in his soldier uniform and sat in the place of honor. Beside him at the table was Mayor Arthur A. Patterson. At one end of the head table sat Walter H. Merritt and at the other end of this table sat Samuel J. Picot. Next to the senior Mr. Merritt sat Mort V. Pach, who acted as master of ceremonies. The other guests were: Harry Clay, chief of police (although his official services were not needed to preserve order); Raymond Johnson, William A. Sweeney, Joseph Salz, W. J. Boteler, Monroe Eisner, Thomas Irving Brown, Dr. Edwin Field, John Kennedy, William Kennedy, Clinton Eldiott, Benjamin H. Ford, Fred Vandriest, William Edgar Denise, Postmaster Frank Pittenger and John H. Cook.

The table was decorated with a floral horseshoe on a base of lilies, decorated with American flags and bearing a photograph of the soldier hero. At the close of the dinner the floral piece was given to the soldier to take home to his mother. One of the menu cards was passed around the table and each person present wrote his name on the card for Mr. Merritt to keep as a souvenir of the dinner.

A full course dinner was served and at its close short remarks were given by each guest. Mr. Merritt related a number of incidents of army life and told of some of his experiences in France. He said that many of the soldiers were buying Liberty bonds on the installment plan, and had authorized the government to take out a part of their money each month until the bonds were paid for. Private soldiers get $30 per month. If they have dependents the government takes half the pay and pays it to the soldier's dependents. After the government has taken out the pay for the dependents, and the amount of the soldier's insurance, he said that very often the soldier had only a dollar left for spending money for the month. Soldiers who moved around much and were away from place to place had to go several months without any money at all. The pay records never reached them but were always somewhere behind, as these records were forwarded from place to place trying to overtake the soldier but failing to do so. These men would get a lot of money in a bunch, but in the meantime it probably was inconvenient for them to go two or three months or more without getting their pay.

The dinner party broke up with all hands wishing Mr. Merritt a safe journey back to France, an active part in helping to lick the Kaiser, a fine trip home when the job of licking the Kaiser was well done, and a happy life forever after.

Frank will go back to duty across the ocean with an assortment of gifts. W. G. Boteler has given him several pairs of socks, which were knitted by Mrs. Boteler. He will also have gifts of cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, candy, and miscellaneous articles. All articles intended for him can be left at Mort V. Pach's cigar store and they will be put up in a suitable package.

DONT USE MILK BOTTLES.

IF YOU DO YOU'LL SURELY GET YOURSELF IN TROUBLE.

Tony Segnorelli's Daughter Used Milk Bottles for Preserved Tomatoes and Tony Was Fined Ten Dollars and Costs.

J. A. Van Schoik, Jr., was on his milk delivery route a few days ago when he saw five milk bottles filled with tomatoes on a shelf in the kitchen of Tony Segnorelli's house on Pearl street. He took the bottles and found that three of them were his milk bottles, one was a bottle of Alfred Grover of Shrewsbury, and one was a milk bottle owned by an Oceanport milkman.

Complaint was made against Tony by Mr. Van Schoik and Mr. Grover. The law states that milk bottles shall not be used for any purpose by any person other than the man whose name is blown in the bottle. Tony was arrested and was taken before Justice Edward W. Wise. Tony said that he did not know anything about the bottles being used, but that his daughter, who had been following out instructions to do all the canning and preserving possible, had used the bottles to put preserved tomatoes in. She did not know it was against the law to use milk bottles for this purpose.

The law is very strict and a justice of the peace cannot do anything except impose a fine when the testimony in a case shows that milk bottles have been used by anyone except the owner. Under this law Justice Wise imposed a fine of $5 in the Van Schoik case and a fine of $5 in the Grover case, with costs of $3.20 in each case. This made the total fines and costs $16.40.

BARRED ZONE EXTENDED.

COAST SECTION PROHIBITORY ZONE FOR ALIENS.

President Issues Order Placing All of Monmouth County Coast in Barred Zone—Lights Flashed from Beach Residences.

President Wilson has issued an order placing practically the entire territory from Rockaway to Point Pleasant, along the coast and for a distance averaging three miles inland, within the barred zone for German aliens except under a permit. The order provides that no German alien shall reside in or continue to reside in, remain in or enter any of the barred areas except by permit of the president. Since submarines first made their appearance on this side of the Atlantic reports have come to officials of the army and navy that signals had been flashed to the submarines by lights from the shore. No actual proof has ever been obtained of communications sent to such boats by the shore. It was to take this added precaution. The new barred area follows the New York and Long Branch railroad from Matawan creek to Point Pleasant and places all the territory east of the railroad in the barred zone. The prohibited territory also includes all the area within the corporate limits of the towns, boroughs and cities which the railroad strikes. The Monmouth county towns affected are Hazlet, Middletown, Red Bank, Branchport, Long Branch city, West End, Elberton, Deal Beach, Alenhurst, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Bradley Beach, Neptune, Avon, Belmar, Lake Como, Spring Lake, Villa Park, Sea Girt, Brielle, Manasquan and Point Pleasant.

The battle line is represented by a red, white and blue ribbon. Small American, French, British and Belgian flags represent the location of the different Allied armies on the front.

Changes of the armies on the battle line are recorded on the map from day to day by moving the ribbon accordingly. SHORT STRIKE IN A MILL.

MILL MEN REFUSE TO WORK WITH A FELLOW EMPLOYEE.

The Men Wanted an Honor Roll for the Mill, Showing That Every Man Had Subscribed for a Liberty Bond, But One Man Did Not.

A short strike occurred in the Waters & Osborn mill on Chestnut street last Wednesday. All the men employed in the mill except Ira D. Emery of Oceanic subscribed for a Liberty bond and the men wanted Mr. Emery also to subscribe. Mr. Emery said that he lived at Oceanic, that his son was a boy scout, and that he was going to subscribe for a Liberty bond but that he would do it through his son and would subscribe at Oceanic, so that his home town would get the subscription. The men in the mill said that would be all right, but they wanted an honor roll for the mill, to show that every man had subscribed for a Liberty bond. They told him that unless he came to the mill the next day wearing a Liberty bond button or showing a receipt for a payment on a Liberty bond they would not work with him. He did not wear a Liberty bond button the next day when he came to work and the men refused to go to work and Mr. Emery went to work alone. The other men stood about the mill until eleven o'clock, when Mr. M. Smith & Son of Elizabeth, the owner of the mill, had a telephone talk with Mr. Emery. The mill is engaged on government orders and Mr. Emery told the Smiths that he would not stand in the way of the government work and he packed up his tools and left the mill. He said he had bought bonds of the second and third Liberty bond issues and that he would buy one or more bonds of the present Liberty bond issue, but that he would buy them on the day when it best suited his circumstances.

TOWN TALK.

An illustration of the slowness of the higher courts of New Jersey in comparison with the criminal cases in the United States courts is shown in the case of Edward Banks and his wife of Long Branch. Banks is a negro and he has a white wife. Banks was indicted last fall by the Monmouth county grand jury for violations of the liquor law. The case was promptly disposed of before Judge Rulif V. Lawrence. Judge Lawrence sentenced Banks to a term in jail, which Banks served. Shortly after Banks got out of jail he was again arrested for violations of the liquor law. He was tried before Judge Lawrence and a jury and he was convicted. Judge Lawrence sentenced him to another term in prison.

Banks took out a writ of error. This writ of error carried the case to the higher courts of New Jersey. Under the New Jersey laws when a man takes out a writ of error he is free until the higher court disposes of his case, provided he can furnish bail. Banks furnished bail and consequently he was once more set at large.

It usually takes a good while to get a case through the higher courts of New Jersey. Sometimes a case is protracted for years. After the United States got in the war the United States government declared that no person should serve liquor to soldiers in uniform. While Banks was out on bail on the Monmouth county case he and his wife were arrested by the United States government on a charge of selling liquor to soldiers. Banks and his wife were tried and convicted. They appealed the case to the higher United States court. It didn't take that court long to decide the case and the conviction of Banks and his wife was affirmed. Last week the United States officers took Banks and his wife to prison to begin their terms.

Delays in court procedure are notorious. Justice should be prompt as well as impartial. This should apply to both criminal and civil cases. In criminal cases the United States court is ordinarily swift, as was shown in the Banks case. In civil cases the proceedings in the United States courts are frequently long drawn out. In one patent or copyright case in which a decision in the United States court was recently given, the case had been under way for 26 years, and it was said at the time that further proceedings could be taken to still further delay the final settlement of the case.

These delays in the courts result in great injustices being committed. In the Banks case, for instance, it should not take the New Jersey courts of appeal any longer to decide the case than it took the United States court of appeal. If Banks and his wife were guilty, the sooner they should be compelled to begin their term of imprisonment the better for the public. Justice which is swift is much more of a terror to evil-doers than justice which is long delayed, for when justice is long delayed there is always encouragement for the criminal that something may turn up to permit him to escape punishment.

The same is true of civil cases. Where cases are long delayed the man with a shorter purse is at a great disadvantage when he is in a contest with a wealthy man or a wealthy corporation. Few men can afford to carry a case from court to court. They cannot employ expensive lawyers, as can a corporation or a man with unlimited means.

Justice should be the same for all persons and no man should have any advantage in the courts over another. Rich and poor should stand on an equal plane when they come into the halls of justice. In theory rich and poor are on equal terms when they come into court. In reality they meet on a tremendously unequal plane, as everyone knows. The man or corporation with unlimited money can drag a case along for years and can wear out an opponent and compel him to discontinue his suit, no matter how just his cause may be.

An absolute change in the methods of court procedure is necessary if rich and poor are to meet on equal terms in the courts. Every case, whether civil or criminal, should be tried by public officials. The employment of private counsel should not be allowed. Private lawyers are engaged, under present conditions, not to see that justice is done, but to win the case for one side or the other. Under such conditions the man who has money to employ the best counsel and the man who has the money to continue the case the longest time, has an immense advantage over a man who is without money.

Of course this change in court procedure will not be made. At least it will not be made in our day. Some day it will come around, but that day is very far distant. Any such proposition would be opposed by almost everyone, even by those who would be most benefited by the change. The human mind gets accustomed to great injustices, provided those injustices have prevailed a long time. The sale of human beings would now be thought to be a monstrosity and the greatest injustice that could possibly exist, yet hundreds of thousands of people in this country can well remember when the sale of human beings was not only thought to be right and proper, but was upheld by the laws of the country and even by ministers of the gospel.

The world moves slowly from point to point. Sometimes there is a great back wash, which sets civilization and justice backward a generation or more. Gradually, however, the principles of absolute justice become established. Every step forward is fought by those who profit by the institutions of the current time. Only by education, and only by courage and sacrifice on the part of the leaders of thought, is any advancement made; and progress by these means is always slow.

The fertilizer test for potatoes, which is to be conducted at Holmdel by the state and national governments, should prove of very great financial value to Monmouth county. Potato growers whose minds are open to receive knowledge will be able to increase the profits from their potato crops ten to thirty per cent, while at the same time they will be able to decrease the expense for fertilizer. These increased profits from the potato crops will benefit every person in the county through the increased money which will flow into the locality.

Every potato grower, whether he plants many acres or few, should visit the experimental patch at Holmdel a number of times during the season. The effects of various fertilizers in varying quantities will be clearly shown throughout the entire season, and the result at harvesting time will show the amount and kind of fertilizer which can be most profitably used in growing the crop.

Science is simply the concentrated result of many experiments. There is a science of farming, just as there is a science of almost everything else. Many farmers ridicule book learning and laugh at the very mention of science as applied to raising crops. It is the farmers who have the greatest amount of scientific knowledge who are making the most money in these days, and this fact is bringing many of the old-time sort of farmers to realize that there is something in science as applied to farming after all.

The experimental potato plot at Holmdel will have a widespread influence on farming in Monmouth county. The potato crop is the greatest single crop raised in the county. On this Holmdel plot every farmer can see for himself exactly what the result is of certain fertilizers. He will be able to gain this knowledge at no expense to himself except the time spent in visiting the plot occasionally.

It is proposed to establish in Monmouth county in some central location in the potato district an experimental plot for potato seed. Many potato diseases are carried down from year to year through diseased seed. An experimental seed plot would be an object lesson to farmers of the need of pure and healthy seed, just as the fertilizer plot at Holmdel will be an object lesson showing farmers the kind and amount of fertilizer to be used to secure the best results.

With old prejudices against book learning and scientific knowledge passing away, a brighter and better and more prosperous day for farmers is coming. Extensive cultivation of small farms of five to twenty acres, and scientific cultivation of bigger farms devoted to field crops, will make the farmer's life easier and more profitable. Then will come the time when the farmer who owns his own place will take his old-time stand as the most independent, the most prosperous and the most comfortably situated of all those engaged in useful occupations.

Several Long Branch Licenses Expire in October but They Are Now Acted on by the Excise Commission There.

Twenty-two liquor licenses were renewed by Judge Lawrence at the opening of the October term of court Tuesday of last week. Long Branch Man is the Father of Thirteen Children.

Joseph Vitallo and Lucy Mangosa of Long Branch were in court last week to answer to a charge of living together illegally. When the couple were questioned it developed that for several years Vitallo had been maintaining two houses, only a few blocks apart. In one lived his wife and seven children. At Miss Mangosa's home Vitallo had six children. Vitallo, who is well along in years, claimed that his first wife had left him and that he supposed he had a right to take another. He was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

MUST LEAVE STATE.

Hyman Goldstein is also Fined $500 on Liquor Selling Charge.

Hyman Goldstein and his wife of Neptune township were arraigned before Judge Lawrence last week charged with selling liquor without a license. They were arrested Sunday morning of last week in a raid of their place made by Sheriff Geran. They waived indictment and pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Lawrence imposed a fine of $500 and costs upon them and suspended further sentence with the understanding that they remove from the state within thirty days.

MUNITION PLANT WRECKED

GREAT DISASTER AT MORGAN LAST FRIDAY NIGHT.

Many Men Killed and Damage of Over $200,000 Done—Two Red Bank Men Among the Lost—Explosions Do Much Damage.

Last Friday night shortly before eight o'clock an explosion took place at the munitions plant at Morgan and from that time until nearly Saturday night explosions followed each other at intervals. A large part of the plant was destroyed and a large number of men were killed. The loss will amount to upwards of $200,000. The disaster was so great that the number of men killed has not yet become accurately known, and it is probable that many were killed whose bodies will never be identified.

Red Bankers Killed and Missing.

One Red Bank man is known to have been killed. This is Henry E. Byrnes, who lived on Branch avenue. He got employment at the munitions plant on Monday of last week, and on Wednesday he was telling some of his friends in Red Bank how glad he was that he had got a job where he could take good care of his wife and children. He was first of all a spectator of caps for shells. His body was among the first of those found and it was recognized by the identification tag and by papers which were found in his pockets. Besides his wife he leaves four children, the oldest being fourteen years of age.

Thomas Gash of East Front street was employed at the munitions works and he is also believed to have lost his life. He had been employed at the plant only a short time. On Friday night, after the first explosion, he went to Morgan to see if he could be of any service. His wife did not want him to go, but he said he thought he should be at his post. No trace of him has since been found and it is believed that he was killed and that his body is somewhere in the ruins, if it has not been entirely destroyed. Chief of Police Harry H. Clayton has made inquiries of men who were at the plant at the time and he has also made inquiries at South Amboy and Perth Amboy. He says he has no doubt that Mr. Gash met his death in the fire or by the explosions. Mr. Gash was 34 years old. He leaves a wife and two children. One of the children is a boy five years old and the other is a girl one month old.

Another missing man is John Parker, Jr., of Farmingdale. He is a son of John Parker, who married Kittie Allen, daughter of Robert Allen, Jr., of Red Bank. He was employed at the munitions plant and has not been heard from since the disaster.

It was reported that Asher Tilton of Shrewsbury was missing. He was formerly a mail carrier at Red Bank and was also a school teacher at Red Bank at one time. The report about Mr. Tilton was without foundation, for he is at home safe and well.

Red Bankers Who Escaped.

A number of Red Bankers were away from the plant because of sickness or for some other reason and these causes kept down Red Bank's list of killed and injured. William N. Worthley of Red Bank, who usually goes to work at seven o'clock in the evening as a time keeper of construction in the building which was first blown up, missed the six o'clock train Friday night and so was not at his usual post. J. B. Rue, Jr., who is in the ordnance department of the army and who is stationed at Morgan, was at home sick. William W. Kennedy of Red Bank, who was a member of the fire department at Morgan, was also at home sick. Ernest S. Howard of Hudson avenue was laid up with influenza. He had been working at the plant at night previous to his sickness.

Walter Conk of White street was employed in making an inventory of parts of the plant. On Friday he was at work in the building which was first blown up and he intended to continue work Friday night, but he changed his mind and went home at six o'clock.

Samuel Hutton is one of the janitors in the dormitories at Morgan and he was in bed when the first explosion occurred. He was ordered to get up by the guards and was allowed time only to put on his clothes. After the first fire had died down a little he tried to go back and save some of his things, but he was stopped. Saturday morning his quarters were wrecked and all his belongings were destroyed. He lost all his clothing, except the suit he had on, and other personal property and a sum of money, amounting in all to $200. Mr. Hutton is the father of Mrs. Horace Fros and he formerly lived at Red Bank.

John Henrich of Washington street is employed at the plant. He went to Morgan after the first explosion and was assigned to guard duty during the fire. One explosion knocked him off his feet and spun him around in the air. When he struck the ground his leg was injured. He is lame from the accident but the injury is not serious.

William Cole of Leonardo, an engineer at Morgan, ran his locomotive back and forth between the blazing buildings and through the falling shells and pulled to safety a number of cars which had been loaded with ammunition. This is regarded as one of the most hazardous feats attempted at the disaster.

Ray T. Cole, who formerly lived at Red Bank and who was associated with Abram L. Davidson in the painting of automobiles, was injured in the explosion. He is now at the Lakewood hospital.

Damage in Nearby Towns.

The towns of South Amboy and Perth Amboy were badly damaged by the explosions. Most of the windows were broken and many of the chimneys were toppled over. Keyport and Matawan suffered considerably, as did all the towns within a radius of a dozen miles of the plant.

explosions were to occur they were advised to leave town and many did so, camping in the fields and some going to nearby towns. A large number of the wounded and shell shocked persons were cared for at the Red Cross rooms, at the public library and at the mansion house, which was temporarily converted into a hospital. The refugees, of whom there were hundreds, were taken care of by the Red Cross at the borough hall, where coffee and sandwiches were served. The Raritan Inn served over fifty gallons of coffee to the refugees and soup to all who came at noon. Some of the state militia from Red Bank assisted the sailors stationed here in guarding the town and the firemen were also called out to do guard duty. All the stores were closed Saturday, only a few of the provision stores opening awhile at night. Many of the refugees were apparently settled for the rest of the night in the various places, but when another blast came many made their way off to places further away, but their places were rapidly filled. A number of Keyport men were employed at the plant when the first explosion occurred and some had minor injuries, but it is thought that no one from Keyport was killed. James McCann, a guard from Keyport, was struck in the head by a piece of shell. Ernest Munch, an inspector, was in the building next to the one where the first explosion took place and he had many narrow escapes from death in getting away from the scene of the disaster.

In Red Bank many plate glass windows were broken but there was very little damage to property outside of this. Many of the storekeepers on Saturday morning braced their show windows with wire and corks, to prevent the vibration of the glass, as was done in New York when the blasts of the subway excavation shook the buildings. Among the stores where show windows were broken were those of Straus Co., Ed. vonKattengell, Andrew Naser, James Butler, F. C. Whitelaw, the Candy Kitchen, French restaurant, W. E. Mount, Atlantic & Pacific, H. J. Miller, A. L. Miller, A. Salz & Co., C. H. Ennis, Star department store, Thomas McKnight and the Sigmund Elsher store at No. 5 Broad street, used as the headquarters of the Liberty loan campaign.

Andrew Coleman Loses Equipment.

Andrew R. Coleman of Red Bank was the official photographer at the plant. He had all his cameras and a good deal of other photographic equipment at the plant and this was totally destroyed. Mr. Coleman is one of the finest nature photographers in the country and all the special lenses and equipment used in this work was at Morgan. His loss will be upwards of $1,000. Some of Mr. Coleman's cameras which were used for special work cannot be duplicated until after the war, as the government takes all lenses of that class now manufactured.

Carpenters' Tools Burned.

Several hundred carpenters were employed at the plant, a considerable number of whom are residents of Red Bank or of this part of the county. They kept their tools at the plant and these were a total loss. A carpenter's kit of tools costs about $50 and some of the carpenters had kits of tools which had cost them $75.

Helping the Unfortunates.

Saturday morning it was announced in Red Bank that the people of Keyport, Matawan and Cliffwood had been ordered to leave their homes and Red Bank at once prepared to take care of refugees from those towns. Many public places and private homes were at once offered as housing places. John S. Applegate, Jr., who is chairman of the civilian relief committee of the Red Cross, made his office the headquarters of the relief organization, which was composed of the following committees:

Emergency—Mort. V. Pach.
Hotels—Peter Dibb, William J. Poulson.
Harry T. Metzger, L. E. Brown.
Public buildings—H. H. Houston.
Public buildings—Arthur A. Patterson.
Automobiles—William H. R. White.
George Hance Patterson.
Food supplies—Albert L. Ivins.
Medical supplies—Red Cross headquarters.

The soldiers' community house on West Front street was a busy place. Over a hundred persons from Keyport and Matawan found comfort there. They were served with soup, coffee, sandwiches and other food. The smaller children were given all the milk they could drink. Among those who cared for the refugees at the community house were Mrs. Ralph O. Willguss, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence White, Mrs. James R. Smock, Mrs. Thomas Irving Brown, Mrs. Charles Preston, Mrs. G. Percival Thomas and daughters, Miss Amelia McDermott and Miss Florence Kridel.

Many Automobiles Offered.

Early Saturday morning it was announced that many persons at Keyport, Matawan and Cliffwood had been ordered out of their homes and that automobiles were desired to bring the people to Red Bank. As soon as this news became public a large number of automobiles were offered for use. Women as well as men were prominent in putting their machines in this service. Many trips to and from Keyport and Matawan were made. Late in the afternoon word came of a number of women and children who started to walk to Red Bank and who had got as far as the Thomas S. Field farm. A Red Bank woman offered to go for them and bring them to Red Bank. She crowded three women and five children into her machine and when they alighted she asked anxiously:

"Are you all right now?"

"Yes, missus," was the reply. "We having fine time. We like to ride in automobiles."

Relief at St. James's Clubhouse.

St. James's clubhouse was the principal refuge for those who came to Red Bank for relief. A group of women were active in comforting the refugees, among this group being Mrs. Vincent Lamarche, Misses Ruth and Dorothy Lamarche, Mrs. Peter P. Rafferty, Mrs. Catherine Crowe, McCarty, Mrs. Eilday, Miss Raughton,

Miss Dorothy Brown and Miss Grace Crowe. The Brower Sisters opened their kitchen, which is across the street from the clubhouse, and prepared coffee and other things while the clubhouse kitchen was being prepared to provide food. Dr. Harvey W. Young was at the clubhouse offering his services to any who might need medical attention, and two nurses, Miss Hogan and Miss Garvey, were also giving their services. A member of Eisner's factory who could speak several languages acted as an interpreter for those who could not speak English and this helped a great deal to quiet the fears of many. William H. Young, in attendance after the John Cahill were in attendance at the clubhouse from time to time from early Saturday morning until the last of the refugees left the place on Sunday.

One man who came to the clubhouse was thought to be suffering with Spanish influenza and he was taken to the Long Branch hospital. An examination of the man at the hospital disclosed the fact that he was merely suffering with a bad cold and he was discharged from the hospital the next day.

Work of Boy Scouts.

The boy scouts were very active in giving assistance. A meeting of the county council of the boy scouts had been called for Friday night, but this meeting was abandoned after the first explosion. Merritt L. Oxenham, the county commissioner, and a number of the older boy scouts who were at the meeting immediately reported at the Red Cross rooms and offered their help. Early Saturday morning scouts were assigned as messengers to various committees of civilian relief. About fifty boy scouts in all were in service in many different capacities. Nearly a score came from Long Branch and helped to help in relief work at Red Bank.

George M. Sandt, the scout commissioner of the Red Bank district, was one of the most active workers in the cause of those who came to Red Bank from towns near the disaster. Others who were especially active were W. Strother Jones, president of the county council; Monroe Eisner and George McClellan Taylor.

The boy scouts were also useful in other ways. Large details of them were at the army and at St. James's clubhouse. In these places the boy scouts helped set up cots and helped to make comfortable those who had come in from Keyport, Matawan, Cliffwood and other places. About 150 persons had supper at St. James's clubhouse Saturday night and staid there all night. Others came in Sunday morning and breakfast was served to about 200. The scouts did a great deal of work in helping to prepare and serve these meals. During Sunday most of the refugees returned to their homes, on being assured that all danger was over.

Many of these persons could not speak English and the boy scouts had difficulty in understanding them. Some of the women had lost their children and some of the children had lost their parents and the scouts finally succeeded in getting parents and children together. In the night one colored woman declared that her baby was missing and the scouts made a long search for the infant. It was finally found cuddled up close to its mother, who had felt for it but did not find it and who had then given out a cry for help. One baby fell out of bed and created so much racket that most of those who were asleep were roused. There was tumult for a time and some of those at the clubhouse thought they had been roused because of immediate danger and they wanted to make a dash for safety.

A detail of scouts was on duty all night at the clubhouse. This detail was in charge of Stanley Brown. Other scouts who formed the detail were Raymond Tilton and George Silvers of Shrewsbury; William Kennedy, Milton Earle and Walter McCoach of Red Bank; and Tabor Chadwick of Long Branch. Scouts were on duty all night, their serving in relays.

Free Rides to New York.

A lot of people came to Red Bank who had friends or relatives in New York and who wanted to get to that place. The Red Cross made arrangements with the Merchants' steamboat company to take the refugees up to New York Saturday afternoon. One hundred and thirty-three persons were thus taken to New York. The Red Cross people expected to pay their fare, but on Monday Capt. Charles E. Throckmorton of the steamboat company notified the civilian relief committee that they would make no charge for taking the refugees to New York but would consider that as a part of their contribution toward those who had suffered by the explosion and fire.

Rebuilding Begun.

The work of rebuilding the burned plant was begun on Monday. On that day the work of removing the wreckage was started, and hundreds of teams and motor trucks were engaged in hauling away the wreckage and in hauling new lumber and other building material. Carpenters and mechanics of all kinds are working there by the thousands. Changes will be made in the locations of the buildings and the officials say that another disaster like that of last week will be impossible.

Investigation Demanded.

Congressman Thomas J. Scully, whose home is at South Amboy, has introduced in congress a resolution asking that a committee of five be appointed to investigate the cause of the disaster and ascertain the losses sustained by the people of the locality, and make recommendations for the relief of those who have sustained injuries or losses. Mr. Scully believes that all losses suffered by people through the accident should be made good.

"I feel that Congressmen Scully, 'that persons living in the vicinity of such plants as the Gillespie plant are doing their bit in buying Liberty bonds and otherwise working for the common good, and it is unfair and unjust that they should also have to suffer, without recompense, the losses incident to such accidents as that of last Friday night. That loss, in my opinion, should be borne by the whole country."

The least that should be done is to reimburse them for their losses."

Leach Arbour Man Missing.

William F. Manley of Loch Arbour has been missing since the disaster and it is believed he was killed, as he was working in the building where the first explosion occurred. He had been working there about two months. Manley was 62 years old and leaves a widow and one daughter.

LIVELY SIDEWALK SCRAP.

HOT ARGUMENT BEFORE THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.

Residents of Madison Avenue Want Sidewalks Put Down—William S. Rose Owns Property on That Street and He Don't Want Sidewalks.

There was a very lively argument over the putting down of sidewalks at the meeting of the town commissioners on Monday night. A petition had been presented to the board, asking that an ordinance be passed for putting down sidewalks on Madison avenue, which is a street in the southeastern part of Red Bank. Edward E. Ottenger, a mail carrier, who owns a house and lot on that street, where he lives, was very desirous of having walks put down. He said it was not intended to have the walks put down this fall, but that the passage of the ordinance would prepare things so that the sidewalks would be put down early next spring, as soon as the frost was out of the ground. It was intended to have the sidewalks all of the same material, if the property owners could come to an agreement on that point, and he thought the best way would be for the town to do the work and each property owner pay his share of the cost.

William S. Rose owns some property on Madison avenue and he was very strongly opposed to the improvement. He said he owned ten lots on the street but Mr. Ottenger promptly said that he owned less than 200 feet. Mr. Rose said that sidewalks should not be put down more than half of the property fronting on the street wanted it done and that only fifteen per cent of the property owners had signed for it. He said only a few persons wanted the sidewalks laid and that it would be an imposition on the other property owners to compel the laying of sidewalks. Mr. Rose at times engaged in witty and exciting arguments with Mr. Ottenger, Councilman Tetley, Wilson and Irwin, and with one or two others. He said there were many other streets where sidewalks were needed more than that were on Madison avenue, and that sidewalks had been ordered put down on Broad street and on other streets many years ago and that the sidewalks were not yet laid.

John S. Applegate, Jr., the town counsel, was at the meeting and his opinion was asked as to whether action could legally be taken if a majority of the property owners had signed the petition for the improvement. He stated that this was under up to the commissioners and that they could order sidewalks laid if they thought they were needed. After considerable more argument the ordinance passed its second reading.

The ordinance for laying sidewalks on Drummond place also passed its second reading.

Councilman Louis J. Tetley stated that he believed an ordinance should be passed providing for laying sidewalks on every street in town where sidewalks are not now laid. He said an ordinance for laying sidewalks on every street in town would be laid until thirty days after the town officials order it done. If a general sidewalk ordinance were passed, covering every street in Red Bank, the town council could have sidewalks put down in the years to come whenever they thought it was necessary or desirable to have them laid, on any street, without getting a special ordinance passed for each street. This matter of a general sidewalk ordinance will probably come up again at the next meeting of the board.

EPIDEMIC OF INFLUENZA.

GREAT PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO PREVENT ITS SPREAD.

Stringent Board of Health Regulations Have Been Issued—Dr. Rullman Gives Rules for Preventing and Combating the Disease.

There has been a great spread of the epidemic of influenza during the past week. The disease has spread over the entire eastern part of the country and every state board of health has issued directions for preventing its further spread and for the treatment of cases which occur.

All boards of health in New Jersey have been notified by the state board of health to use all precautions against the spread of the disease. The Red Bank board of health held a special meeting on Monday night, after the notice from the state board of health had been received. The Red Bank board of health issued orders that all public gatherings during the duration of the epidemic of influenza must be avoided as far as practicable. The board ordered closed all motion picture places, churches, schools, dance halls, pool rooms, lodge rooms, saloons, soda fountains and other places where numbers of people congregate. The public was urged to avoid unnecessary travel in public conveyances and to refrain from social activities which will result in the gathering together of numbers of people. All cases of influenza and pneumonia were ordered isolated in bed during the acute stage of the disease and all discharges from the throat and nose disinfected.

No public funerals will be permitted for those who die of influenza or pneumonia. Common towels in public places will not be allowed and the law will be strictly enforced concerning the use of common drinking cups in public places. All eating utensils which are used for more than a single service in places where food and drink are sold must be boiled or cleansed in some other equally efficient manner after each using.

Dr. Rullman's Advice.

Dr. Walter A. Rullman of Red Bank, who is a member of the Red Bank board of health and who is also the school medical examiner, has given a number of rules to show the best means of avoiding influenza. These rules are as follows:

Avoid crowds.

Contact with others spreads the disease.

Sneeze and cough in your handkerchief—no one else wants the germs you throw away.

Breathe through your nose—not your mouth.

Gargle frequently.

Keep clean in clothing and person.

Keep warm and keep sleeping and riding—cool while walking.

Open your window at night.

Keep your office and home well ventilated, but not draughty.

If you feel ill, go home, go to bed, call a physician, stay in bed till better and indoors, till well.

Many public meetings which had been announced have been abandoned. The Liberty loan parade which had been scheduled for this week will not take place and the ball of the Garibaldi association has also been called off.

DR. SAYRE HOUSE RENTED.

Atlantic City Family Become Residents of Red Bank

Dr. William D. Sayre's house on Maple avenue has been rented to Eugene Stark of Atlantic City, who is a representative of a big cigar firm. He has already taken possession. His family consists of himself, a wife and a child two years old. The lease is from the present time up to next April, with the option of continuing the lease for another year. The rental of the property was made by the Red Bank real estate company.

"Hearts of the World" Coming.

"Hearts of the World," the D. W. Griffith production that required eighteen months in the making and which is declared to be the masterpiece of this genius of the motion picture, surpassing both "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," will be the attraction of the Empire theater three nights commencing Monday, October 14, with matinees Tuesday and Wednesday.

"That 'Hearts of the World' has established a new high record for even a Griffith production may be gained from the fact that it is now being shown in Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities upwards of more than four hundred times at $2.00 prices. That it is a most unusual achievement is evident from the announcement of other high officials of the British and French nations not only gave Mr. Griffith their most hearty co-operation in the taking of the principal scenes, but personally appear in the play.

Contrary to the general opinion, this latest of the Griffith works is not a war play. It is described by Mr. Griffith himself as "the sweetest love story ever told." It was written by Gaston de Tollenc and translated from the French by Captain Victor Maturin. The story is in two parts, the first revealing the life of an ordinary French family before the war and the second the experiences of these people when the great conflict brings its grim realities to their doors.

The majority of the scenes in "Hearts of the World" are described as great moving paintings that might have been conceived by the world's greatest artists, their beauty and grandeur far exceeding anything ever before attempted even by the master hand of the indomitable Griffith.—Advertisement.

A CHURCH CELEBRATION.

LITTLE SILVER METHODIST CHURCH FIFTY YEARS OLD.

The Corner Stone of the Present Building Was Laid October 7th, 1868, Though There Was an Earlier Church There Before Then.

The fiftieth anniversary of the cornerstone laying of Emory Lodge dist Episcopal church at Little Silver is being celebrated this week. The celebration was begun Sunday morning, when Rev. J. W. Marshall of Ocean Grove, preached the sermon. A Sunday-school rally was held in the afternoon and at night Rev. E. R. Carhart of New York preached. Next Sunday morning the Lord's Supper will be served, the Sunday-school will have special service in the afternoon and a patriotic service will be held at night, which the Little Silver lodge of American Mechanics and soldiers from Camp Hall have been invited. Preaching during the week will be by Rev. J. B. Whitton of Seabright, Rev. J. E. Patterson of Eatontown, Rev. Z. T. Dugan and Rev. A. C. Polhemus.

The corner stone of the present church building was laid October 7th, 1868, though the Methodists had built an earlier church on the site many years before. The corner stone was laid by Rev. E. H. Stokes of Ocean Grove and Rev. Charles E. Hill of Red Bank. The building cost $6,000 and was dedicated free of debt February 24th, 1869. Rev. E. H. Stokes, then presiding elder, preached the dedication sermon. At the annual conference held the following March the Oceanport church was attached to the Little Silver district with Rev. William T. Abbott as pastor. Rev. D. Y. Stephens is the present pastor.

RUMSON NEWS.

Increase of Trolley Fare Applied For by the Trolley Company.

John S. Applegate, Jr., of Red Bank, counsel for the trolley company, appeared before the commission last week in the interest of an increase of fare to six cents. The commissioners were apparently not opposed to the increase but they thought the trolley company should give better service.

The co-operation of the officials of Rumson has been asked in the matter of collecting peach pits and other fruit pits for use in making carbon for gas masks for the soldiers in France.

In Barrows of the Rumson improvement society asked for a list of the Rumson soldiers who had gone to war. A large artistic tablet will be erected, bearing the names of all the Rumson soldiers. The borough of Rumson will pay $75 toward the cost of the memorial and the Rumson improvement association will pay the remainder.

Six helmets and six rubber coats have been ordered for the Oceanic fire company. Rumson fire company has 1,100 feet of hose, but some of it is not in good condition. Several years ago 500 feet of hose was bought for West Park fire company. This company is now inactive. The hose will be tested and if it is found to be in good condition it will be put in use on the motor fire trucks.

Some time ago rules for the government of the fire companies were issued by the council. The rules have been disregarded and the council at its last meeting gave orders for posting the rules in the fire houses and issued notice that the rules must be obeyed.

The gutter in front of the Oceanic fire company house will be repaired. The firemen were called out Thursday night by a brush fire on the Hoagland place. The fire turned out to be a trivial affair and no damage was done by it.

A number of boys have been driving automobiles in Rumson without licenses and the police will arrest all drivers of cars who cannot show drivers' licenses.

Bills to the amount of $1,430.71 were paid at the last meeting of the Rumson commissioners.

The Oceanic auxiliary of the Red Cross made 1,304 articles during September. The list included surgical dressings, hospital garments and knitted goods. The average attendance at the meetings was fourteen workers.

Following the explosion at Morgan a special meeting was called Saturday morning at which fifty men, women and children attended. Nearly seven hundred articles were gathered together before noon and were sent to the Red Bank chapter to be used in case of an emergency. The Oceanic auxiliary has also forwarded 273 contagious ward masks.

On account of the epidemic of influenza the board of health and the board of education has ordered the public schools closed for a week.

Mrs. George Dilly and family of New York spent yesterday here with relatives and friends.

A large barrel has been put on the postoffice porch for the collection of peach pits for government use. A large quantity of pits were deposited in the barrel yesterday.

Mrs. Henry Owens, Jr., closed her summer home and returned to New York a few days ago. Mrs. Frank Boylan will close her summer home Saturday.

The Liberty loan activities in the borough are bringing forth late subscriptions. After the Sunday morning service at Holy Cross church the Rumson committee sold bonds to the amount of $16,650. Rumson's quota is $100,000, and this has been exceeded by $70,000. The members of the Liberty loan committee are: William H. Hintelmann, chairman; J. Barrows, treasurer; William H. Hong, secretary; Harden L. Crawford, Rev. M. H. Callahan, George W. Carpenter, Rev. W. Dutton Dale, Henry R. Dwight, William S. Dowlen, Charles J. Earl, Alfred J. Hintelmann, Otto Goetze, Dennis Martin, William Mears, Joseph McHaffey, Herbert Willis, Harry A. Kettel, Thomas F. Victor, Charles D. Halsey, William H. Mahoney, William H. Allas and James E. Goggin.

Rev. Louis Albert Lindemuth of New Rochelle, who occupied the Presbyterian pulpit here during September, will preach at both services at the Presbyterian church Sunday. Rev. Lester Brent gave two talks at the Presbyterian church Sunday telling of his experiences at the front. The ladies' aid society met this afternoon at the parish house. The weekly prayer meeting will be held tonight.

The annual rally of the young people's missionary auxiliary of the Presbyterian of Monmouth was to have been held here next Saturday but it has been indefinitely postponed on account of the epidemic of influenza.

EATONTOWN NEWS.

Liberty Loan Parade Held Here.

A Liberty loan parade will be held here next Saturday, the anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. Citizens, school children and members of the girls' patriotic league will take part in the demonstration. Eatontown is hustling its canvass for subscriptions.

A window in William Morris's store was broken out by the explosion at Morgan. No other damage was done, and Eatontown residents considered themselves lucky in comparison with other towns nearby. Crescent Hall was thrown open to refugees from Keyport, Matawan and Cliffwood and the homeless people were served with hot food. Mrs. Charles P. Rathbone and Mrs. Darius Vandermark took a prominent part in aiding the refugees.

Lewis Johnson has bought John Wright's house on High street for his own occupancy. Mr. Wright has moved out of town.

The women's missionary society will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Presbyterian chapel. Miss Olivia Borden has arranged a program for the meeting. Miss Ella Vanderveer of Red Bank will read a paper pertaining to missionary work and mission study.

Mrs. and Mrs. William Tilton have received word that their son, Lieutenant Herbert O. Tilton, has arrived safely overseas.

Harris Miller is laid up with a cold. John Caffrey is the sick list. John Caffrey has received a letter from his son Joseph, who was recently sent to Camp Humphries, Virginia, with a Red Bank contingent. Joseph said he was sick in a hospital with influenza, and that about thirty Red Bank boys in the camp were also sick.

Percy Dangler has taken Joseph Winning's place as rural mail carrier while Mr. Winning is enjoying his annual two weeks' vacation.

It pays to advertise in The Register. Advertisement.

EVERETT NEWS.

Red Cross Room and Schoolhouse Thrown Open to Exiled Refugees.

The Red Cross room and the schoolhouse were used as a relief headquarters Saturday for residents of Keyport, Matawan and Cliffwood, who had been ordered out of their homes because of the fire at the Morgan munitions plant. The women of the village served the refugees with food. Many of them afterward went to Red Bank.

Harold Stout and family spent Friday with relatives at Matawan. Mrs. Lemuel Soden is on the sick list.

TOWN TALK.

The Red Bank teams which are engaged in getting subscriptions to Liberty bonds are working strenuously to make Red Bank fill its quota. Every home is being visited and the work is becoming more and more vigorous as the end of the campaign draws near.

Victory is with the American armies in foreign lands but that is no reason why there should be hesitation or delay in subscribing for bonds to raise money to keep the fight going. An over-subscription of bonds would show the Kaiser and his allies that the great heart of America is with her men in the trenches and in the ranks. It would show also that America is ready to continue the fight until the great battle for right and justice is completely won.

So come across! Delaying in sending in your subscription won't help any. And don't wait for the men with big money to do it all. The man who makes a sacrifice to buy a fifty dollar bond is a greater patriot than the man who buys a million dollars' worth of bonds without making any sacrifice. But whether you are able to buy one small bond or a number of big ones, buy bonds to the very last dollar you can spare.

The hearty response for help which came when the disaster at the Morgan plant took place last week is only another evidence that the people are always ready to give aid unstintingly in time of trouble. Rich and poor helped in the work of giving aid and comfort to those who had been temporarily driven out of their homes. Women and men, boys and girls, all strove to relieve as far as was in their power those who suffered in the great calamity. This spirit of love for unfortunate fellow beings was not unexpected, but every additional manifestation of such a spirit gives renewed faith in humanity.

WEDDINGS.

DeGrote-Walling.

Miss Effie B. DeGrote of Port Monmouth and J. Emmett Walling of Keyport were married on Tuesday of last week at the bride's home by Rev. A. H. Sutphin of New Monmouth. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tarnow of Belford. Mrs. Tarnow and the bride are sisters. The bride was given away by her parents. The bridal party entered the parlor as the wedding march was played by Mrs. Walter DeGrote, wife of Sergeant Waller DeGrote, who is now in France. The bride was dressed in white satin and chiton, trimmed with little satin roses, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The matron of honor was dressed in blue satin and carried pink roses. The ring ceremony was used.

After the ceremony a supper was served. The couple motored to Red Bank, where they boarded a train for Atlantic City. The bride's traveling suit was of navy blue gabardine. On their return the couple will start housekeeping near Keyport, where the groom has a farm. The bride received many useful presents, including silverware, cut glass, linen, a dining room set, etc.

Fitzmaurice-Brown.

A pretty wedding was performed on Monday night of last week at St. James's church when Miss Katie Fitzmaurice became the bride of William Brown, who lives at Red Bank. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Farral. The bride wore a gown of white georgette crepe with hat to match. Mrs. Frank Haley of Everett, an aunt of the bride, and James Conway of Red Bank, were the attendants. A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mrs. James Conway on Spring street. About fifty guests were present. The couple have started housekeeping on Spring street. The bride received many useful and pretty gifts. Mr. Brown is employed by the Independent ice company.

DANGER IN POTATO SEED!

WHY RISK A SHORT CROP BECAUSE OF UNKNOWN OR POOR SEED?

You Can Get the Best Potato Seed Grown at a Cost of Less Than $1.00 per Barrel Above the Price of the Common Run of Potatoes Sold for Seed, Which May Lose You Many Dollars on Every Acre Planted—To Be Safe Insist on Having the Silver-Black Fox Brand of Maine Seed.

To the Editor of The Register:

In the kitchen potatoes are potatoes, but all potatoes are not seed potatoes—not by a jug-full!

Where stored in bins or loaded in cars, kitchen potatoes and seed potatoes may look alike. But there are five or more diseases of the potato plant which travel in the tuber or potato and which no naked eye can detect. So once they are dug the diseased potatoes and healthy potatoes look alike. And these diseased potatoes are good for kitchen use but dangerous for seed use.

Now all potatoes grown are sold for some use—for food, for seed, for starch or stock feed. Of course farm-hills in the fields, if the yield was poor or big, if potash was used or not, if the farmer sprayed and prevented the blight or not, if the bloom showed them to be all of one variety or not, and so on. But these are the things which experts in potato seed must know.

As seed potato specialists we make it our business to know about every field of potatoes grown around Van Buren, Maine, the most northerly potato district in the U. S. A. Our firm comprises two practical potato men, who know the Maine potato business from A to Z. One member is the office man and the other the outside man. The latter, during the seedling and growing season, makes it his sole business to visit farmers and their potato fields. We speak both French and English for most of the farmers around Van Buren, Maine, are thrifty, hard-working French-speaking men who are anxious to co-operate with us in improving their crops by seed selection, by roguing out diseased hills and by thorough spraying. So we know the best fields and these we buy and sort out by hand for our Silver-Black Fox brand of potato seed.

Once more let us remind New Jersey farmers how to make certain that they are getting the very best Maine potato seed. Insist that your potato seed dealer orders our Silver-Black Fox brand. You will know it by the picture of the Silver-Black Fox printed here-with. This fox picture will be printed on tags attached to the bags, or on cards inside of the bags, or on the bag itself. By sending us old bags you will save money. If the dealer orders a car in bulk, of our Silver-Black Fox brand of seed we will furnish him a letter stating that a potato car of a certain railroad, name and number was loaded by us on a certain date and shipped to a certain dealer, who is authorized to show the letter to farmers that they may know that McIver & Watson of Van Buren, Maine, guarantee the car of seed to be the best of potato seed stock to be had anywhere at any price. Thus you may get Giant, Collier or Mountain seed of dependable quality and at only a small cost over the price of the common run of seed.

An error occurred in our letter of last week. We meant to say that potatoes here sprout in four to five weeks after they are planted and not five to six weeks, thus enabling us to see the rows across the fields by July 4th.

Yours truly,

The man in New Jersey who buys Northern potatoes by letter or telephone, or even after he sees them stored in bins and cellars, does not know on what farms they were grown. He does not know—can not know—if there were lots of diseased

PREVENT GRIP!

That is Better Than Curing It

One excellent preventative is to keep your feet warm and dry. Don't wait until a cold is started to buy those rubbers and shoes you know you will need. Buy them NOW when you are well, and remember that Clarence White, 9 Broad Street, Red Bank, has probably the newest, best stock of A-1 Shoes and Rubbers in this part of New Jersey, for several reasons I could tell you. No one can now buy such soles as are on my fall shoes. Also I now have every size Rubber Boot, Arctic and Overshoe to fit man, woman or child. Can promise nothing for future, therefore buy now.

My

DOLLARS THAT FIGHT!

By SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE.

The war will be won by men and ships, by guns and airplanes. To raise armies and supply them, to build the navy and support it, and to furnish ships and transport, we must have money in large amounts. The expenditures of the Government for the ensuing year are estimated at $24,000,000,000, a sum which baffles the imagination to conceive. That vast amount must come one-third from taxes and two-thirds from loans. The success of the Fourth Loan like those that preceded it is, therefore, absolutely necessary. We must work with the highest speed, as if the war was to end in six months. We must prepare in every direction, as if it was to last for years. Speed and preparation are both expensive.

Without the Loans We Cannot Move Either

We Cannot Win Without Money, and, Therefore, These Loans Are Vital, and the Country Should Rally in All Its Strength and Subscribe and Oversubscribe the Fourth Loan!

TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS CLOSED BECAUSE OF INFLUENZA.

Several Residents of the Township
Have Been Stricken with It—Rally
Day Service Held at New Monmouth Sunday.

The township schools have been closed indefinitely to prevent the spread of influenza. A large number of cases of influenza have been reported in the township. The churches are still open and no ban has as yet been put on public gatherings.

A rally day service was held Sunday at the New Monmouth Baptist church. Rain and sickness lessened the attendance, which was smaller on Sunday than in many years. At the exercises recitations were given by Miss Dot Seelye, James Griggs sang, and William Morford and Judson Palmer rendered musical selections on their instruments. Mrs. James Griggs presided at the piano. The women's missionary society will meet Friday afternoon at the parsonage.

The pupils of the North Centerville school who were neither absent nor tardy during the past month were Esther Acker, Helen Boyce, Edith Carter, Alida Lewis, Madelyn Massey, Pearl Nuckle, Edna C. Edna M. and Norma Vanderbilt, Theresa Walling, Thomas Collins, George Massey, and James and Raymond Walling. The pupils have raised $13 so far this term by getting up a soap order. This amount, together with $10 contributed by the state, will be used to buy pictures and books and part of it will be given to the Red Cross. Miss Francis McKelvey is teacher of this school.

Among the Belford residents who are sick or who have been sick recently are Thomas Eslow and family; Albert Bickens, Harry Branson, Sr., and his son Harry, Thomas Smith and family and Earle Finnigan. Mr. Finnigan was out for the first yesterday. He has been attended by his sister Ella, who is a trained nurse.

Misses Henrietta Petermann of New Monmouth and Uretta Compton, Jennie Kraemer and Margaret Lund of Belford are home from Trenton normal school, which has been closed during the influenza epidemic. There are over 100 cases in that school. Miss Lund was taken sick with influenza but she is now well.

Jasper Morrell of Port Monmouth and Fred Lund of Belford, who have been on a merchant marine training ship, are home on a few days' leave. Frank Grant of Belford, who is employed at the Brooklyn navy yard, is also home on a visit.

A special meeting of the Navesink Red Cross auxiliary was held Monday afternoon to make face masks for soldiers in the camps infected with influenza.

Mrs. J. B. Conover and her daughter Marion returned home to Verona last week after a stay with Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Sutphin of New Monmouth.

William Barry of Navesink, an actor, is home. The theater where he was acting has been closed on account of the influenza epidemic.

Anthony Grandorath of Belford spent Saturday and Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Thiel of Elizabeth.

Miss Nellie Acker of New Monmouth is laid up with influenza. John O'Neill of New Monmouth is recovering from influenza.

The New Monmouth Red Cross auxiliary met Friday at the headquarters and finished the allotment of face masks.

Miss Florence Sickles of Navesink has been spending a few days with Miss Frances Chamberlain of Red Bank.

George Halsey of Belford is a victim of influenza. He is on a mend. His young son has been sick with grip.

Miss Catherine Hyland of Brooklyn has been visiting Mrs. David Cosby of New Monmouth.

Miss Augusta Griggs of New Monmouth has been kept indoors with a bad cold.

Philip Leonard of Leonardo has bought a new Maxwell touring car. Mrs. Charles Lohsen of Belford is sick with pneumonia.

MIDDLETOWN VILLAGE NEWS.

Douglas Heath's Funeral, Held Last Wednesday.

The funeral of Douglas Heath, who died at Camp Dix, was held last Wednesday afternoon at the Red Hill Methodist church. The burial was made in the church cemetery. The bearers were Moses, George, Walter, Arthur and Edgar Heath and John Jones, all of whom are cousins of Douglas.

The Red Hill Methodist and Baptist churches have been closed until the epidemic of Spanish influenza is under control.

A children's rally day service will be held next Sunday morning at the Reformed church. Miss Millie Wilson will lead the Christian Endeavor consecration service at night. All the members of the society are expected to participate. Friday night's prayer meeting will be held at the parsonage. Rev. Marion T. Conklin and Charles Tindall attended a meeting of the Monmouth classis yesterday at Red Bank. The Steady Cleaners and the women's missionary society will hold a joint meeting on Saturday afternoon, October 19th, at Mrs. Edwin Beckman's. A program is being arranged by Mrs. John West, president of the Steady Cleaners.

The stained glass windows on the west side of the Baptist church were broken by the explosions at Morgan. A large window in Richard Lufburrow's store was broken and windows in a number of houses were smashed. Kenneth Pease and Herbert Dietz are on the sick list.

Kenneth Smith, a cripple, who signals the railroad trains as they pass through here, is laid up. He had a bad cold last week and on Saturday his condition became worse, when he was taken outdoors after a warning had been received for every family to leave the house in anticipation of a heavy explosion at Morgan.

William T. Casler, who was overcome with gas a few days ago, continues to improve.

Mrs. John J. Massey and her son Hugh spent part of last week with relatives at New York City.

William Bohn is laid up with grip. Miss Julia Maloney is out again after having been kept indoors with sickness.

Miss Marion Dickinson is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Emily Fisher of Osbornville.

Winfred and Augustus Gant of Osbornville spent Saturday and Sunday with the cousins, Mrs. Jacob Dickinson. They were employed as carpenters at Morgan and were at South Amboy when the explosion started. They escaped unhurt and after visiting Mrs. Dickinson they returned to their home at Osbornville.

Rev. William Heath of Camden is visiting his brothers, Rev. Calvin Heath and Clinton P. Heath.
